The 2016 Sicilia Nero d'Avola Rosso di Cipponeri pours from the bottle with deep, dark intensity. You feel the heat of Trapani, in the southwest corner of the triangular-shaped island, with sweet flavors of blackberry marmalade, cherry confit and candied apricot. There is some sweetness in the mouth that reminds me of almond marzipan. The wine is plush, rich and soft to the end. Some 6,626 bottles were made. This wine ages in oak barrel for eight months.
